AN INVITATION

by George Durnell, St. Louis County Library

The Lewis and Clark Library System (in Edwardsville) has invited all of us from this side of the river to attend their second annual "libraryPaloora:". This is their system-wide staff development day. You can see their facilities, meet some Illinois librarians, and learn about the activities going on across the river. There is no charge and a buffet lunch is included. LCLS is just about 30 minutes from the Arch. Some information about the featured speaker follows.

"People Power"

Meet DONNA FISHER, CERTIFIED SPEAKING PROFESSIONAL Donna is "the speaker with the personal touch who inspires people to develop their own personal power to enhance the human connection through their people skills. She says "Networking is choosing interdependence over competition." It links people and information to one another for the mutual benefit of everyone involved... those who are truly masterful at networking do so in a very quiet yet powerful manner. These people know the power of grace and respect. They've developed their personal power and know how to connect with people to share their power. You have that personal power within you, and your network is unlimited! Donna will teach us People Power principles that can help each of us be a source of power for ourselves and others.
When: Fri. Oct. 1st, 9 a.m. To register call Sara Pate at 800-642-9545, ext 142.
Deadline: Sept 24th.

LIBRARY WEBPAGE

by Carol Ann K. Winkler

I recently designed my library webpage, which can be seen at <http://www.nerinxhs.org/Lib.html>. There are links to local public and university library catalogs and links to sites that contain the full text of magazines. The amount of issues archived on-line varies at the discretion of the publishers of the magazines, but students working late at night may find this helpful. Most important are the links to directories for searching for solid information on the web. Members are welcome to view the "page Source" file behind the Nerinx website to copy out any of the html info that would be useful to their own webpages. Librarians who would like to get more ideas for their own webpages should visit <http://www.librarycom.com> where they will see links to libraries all over the country.
